Q: Why did the farmer have to separate the chicken and the turkey?
A: He sensed fowl play!

Q: What do you call a turkey running away at Thanksgiving?
A: Fast food!

Q: Why did the turkey cross the road?
A: He wanted people to think he was a chicken!

TIDBITS[®] COUNTS TO THE

by Kathy Wolfe

Lucky to some and unlucky to others. That's the story about the number 13, brought to you this week by Tidbits!

- It's estimated that at least 10% of Americans have a fear of the number 13. This phobia has been officially recognized and named triskaidekaphobia, a term created in 1911. Because of this, merchants often avoid using the number, such as hotels and tall buildings skipping from 12 to 14 when numbering their floors. According to research, more than 80% of high-rise buildings do not have a 13th floor.
- The word triskaidekaphobia has its roots in the Greek language, with "tris" meaning "three," "kai" translating to "and," and "deka" meaning "ten," with the addition of the word "phobia," which means "fear."
- There's even a special name for the fear of Friday the 13th - paraskavedekatriaphobia. This may have originated in the 1307 execution of the Knights Templar, a religious and military order formed to defend the Holy Land. King Philip IV of France, who wanted the organization's significant financial resources, ordered their imprisonment based on false charges, and many were executed on Friday, October 13th.
- How did the number 13 get such a bad rap? Some attribute the notion to Judas Iscariot, the person who betrayed Jesus, as he was the 13th guest to arrive at the Last Supper, as well as the tradition that Jesus was crucified on Friday the 13th. According to Norse mythology, the evil god Loki appeared uninvited at a banquet of the gods of light and joy, and was the 13th to arrive. The legend says he fatally injured his blind brother at the party, introducing evil and bad luck associated with the number.

• Sarah Winchester, heiress to the massive Winchester Arms Company fortune, built a huge mansion in San Jose, California based on her superstitions, with the number 13 prominent throughout. The chandelier had 13 gas jets, while the glass window panes were created from 13 colored stones. There are 13 bathrooms, and every staircase has 13 steps. Each sink drain cover contains 13 holes, and clothes hooks are arranged in groups of 13. Her will, which had 13 sections, was signed 13 times, leaving everything except the mansion to her niece. Every Friday the 13th, a bell is rung 13 times at 1:00 PM, which is 13:00 in military time.

• Many consider it bad luck to dine with 13 people at a table. London's Savoy Hotel makes sure it never happens. If you book a table for 13, the table will be set for 14, with the 14th chair occupied by Kaspar, a 3-foot-high carved cat sculpture, a resident of the hotel since the 1920s.

• Not everyone considers 13 to be unlucky. In China, it's considered a lucky number, because its pronunciation sounds much like the words for "assured growth." At the time of World War I, the French people regarded it as lucky and used it as a good luck symbol on postcards and charms.

• Mary Kay Ash considered 13 to be her lucky number. She founded her famous cosmetics company on Friday, September 13, 1963. The company's headquarters has 13 floors serviced by 13 passenger elevators.

• Likewise, the number 13 is a lucky number for Hamilton, New York's Colgate University. The school was founded in 1819 by 13 men (including 6 clergymen), with $13 and 13 prayers. Located at 13 Oak Drive, it's ranked the 17th-best liberal arts college in the nation.

• Civil War veteran Captain William Fowler took the number 13 very seriously. As a boy, he attended Manhattan's Public School No. 13, graduating at age 13. As a builder, he built 13 structures in New York City. On April 13, 1861, he became a member of the Union Army and fought 13 battles, and resigned his commission on August 13, 1863. He belonged to 13 secret social organizations, which included being the 13th member of the Ancient Arabic Order of the Nobles of the Mystic Shrine. On September 13, 1863, Fowler purchased the Knickerbocker Cottage in Manhattan and established a supper club. He regularly hosted an exclusive society called the Thirteen Club, a group that dined together on the 13th day of every month in Room 13, with a 13-course dinner. Four former U.S. presidents were members of the club.

• President Franklin Roosevelt was definitely not a member of the Thirteen Club, as he refused to have a meal with 13 people at his table, and never traveled on the 13th of the month.

• How much do you know about the 13th U.S. President?

Formerly a successful lawyer, Millard Fillmore had been the Vice-President under President Zachary Taylor, who died suddenly of a stomach ailment. An ardent abolitionist, having declared slavery an evil, Fillmore was largely responsible for the passing of the Compromise of 1850, which led to a short-term truce in the battle over slavery. During Fillmore's term, the state of California was admitted to the Union.

• Most of us know that there were 13 original colonies that eventually became the United States. Can you name them? New Hampshire, Massachusetts, Connecticut, Rhode Island, New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Delaware, Maryland, Virginia, North Carolina, South Carolina, and Georgia comprised the first colonies. Although we usually think of Plymouth Colony, formed in 1620 by a small group of Puritan separatists, as the first, the first colony was Virginia, where Jamestown was founded in 1607. Some Puritans who viewed Massachusetts as too restrictive formed the colony of Rhode Island in 1636, while others who thought Massachusetts wasn't devout enough, branched away to form Connecticut the same year. Still others who longed for adventure settled in New Hampshire. By 1775, when the Revolutionary War broke out, the population of the 13 colonies topped 2.5 million people. Although Virginia is recognized as the first colony, Delaware is the first official U.S. state, because it was the first state to ratify the U.S. Constitution in December 1787, followed by Pennsylvania just five days later and New Jersey six days after that.

• Take a look at the back of a one-dollar bill and you'll see all sorts of evidence of the number 13. There are 13 leaves on the olive branch and 13 fruits. The shield contains 13 bars, the eagle's wings have 13 plumes of feathers on each, and there are 13 stars above the eagle. There are 13 steps on the pyramid. The phrase "E PLURIBUS UNUM" has 13 letters, as does the phrase "ANNUIT COEPTIS" ("God has favored our undertaking").

MOVIE FAVORITES: HOME ALONE

As the holiday season approaches, Tidbits takes time to remember when Kevin McCallister was left behind by his family on their Paris Christmas vacation.

- After getting into a scrap with his older brother Buzz, Kevin was grounded to his room on the third floor of the family home. The following morning, as the family scrambled to get to the airport on time, Kevin was forgotten and was left home alone. At first, it was fun – making a mess, jumping on the bed, eating what he wanted, and doing as he pleased – until two burglars attempted to rob the house on Christmas Eve. Kevin set out to foil the bandits' schemes.
- It took three months to film the picture, beginning on Valentine's Day, 1990 and wrapping up on May 16. Director Chris Columbus had been the screenwriter of "The Goonies" and "Gremlins," and post-Home Alone, he directed "Mrs. Doubtfire," "Bicentennial Man," and the first two Harry Potter movies. Even though screenwriter John Hughes wrote the role of Kevin specifically for Macaulay Culkin, Columbus auditioned more than 100 kids for the role before settling on the 9-year-old. When "Home Alone" hit theaters in November, 1990, Culkin became an immediate star.
- Although there seems to be an age spread among all the McCallister children – Buzz, Megan, Jeff, Linnie, and Kevin – all of the actors except Culkin were born in 1977. Culkin was born in 1980. Hillary Wolf, who played Megan, quit acting and took up judo, becoming a member of the U.S. Olympic team for the sport at the 1996 and 2000 games.
- Stuntman Larry Nicholas served as Culkin's stunt double.

When viewers saw Kevin sledding down the stairs, zip-lining, and crashing through shelves, it was really 30-year-old Nicholas, a man similar in size to Culkin.

- The house used in the film belonged to Winnetka, Illinois residents John and Cynthia Abenshien. Located at 671 Lincoln Avenue, the 4,250-sq. ft. red brick Georgian-style house was built in 1921. The kitchen, main staircase, and ground-floor landing scenes were all filmed in the five-bedroom residence, while the dining room and other first-floor rooms were filmed on a soundstage built for the shots. When the Abenshien family put the house on the market in 2014, it was listed at $2.4 million, but after nearly a year without a sale, the price was reduced, selling for $1.585 million.
- The scenes of the McCallister family inside the airplane were shot in a Chicago-area high school. The seats were built on the school's basketball court. The school's swimming pool was used for the scene of Kevin running through a flooded basement. The Paris airport scenes were filmed at Chicago's O'Hare Airport.
- Joe Pesci was unforgettable as the burglar Harry Lyme, but the role was first offered to Robert DeNiro, who turned it down, then to Jon Lovitz who also said no. In order to give Macaulay Culkin the impression that he really was a mean guy, Pesci deliberately avoided the young actor while on set. And to add insult to injury, while rehearsing the scene where Harry tries to bite off Kevin's finger, Pesci did indeed bite Culkin, leaving behind a small scar.

• Opening weekend at the box office topped $17 million, and "Home Alone" maintained the No. 1 spot for 12 weeks. It was the highest-grossing movie of 1990, and for 27 years, it held the record for highest-grossing live-action comedy, with earnings of $285.7 million. It was produced on an estimated budget of $18 million. The film's two Oscar nominations were for the movie's music.

Thanksgiving Pumpkin Torte

You take care of the rest of the meal, and I'll take care of dessert. Now if we could just find someone else to take care of the dishes, we'd have something else to be thankful for!

- 18 (2 1/2-inch) graham cracker squares
- 1 (15-ounce) can solid packed pumpkin
- 1 (4-serving) package sugar-free instant butterscotch pudding mix
- 2/3 cup nonfat dry milk powder
- 1 1/2 teaspoons pumpkin pie spice
- 3/4 cup water
- 1 cup reduced-calorie whipped topping
- 2 tablespoons chopped pecans

1. Evenly arrange 9 graham crackers in a 9-by-9-inch cake pan. In a large bowl, combine pumpkin, dry pudding mix, dry milk powder, pumpkin pie spice and water. Mix well using a wire whisk. Blend in 1/4 cup whipped topping. Spread half of pumpkin mixture evenly over graham crackers.

2. Top with remaining 9 graham crackers. Spread remaining pumpkin mixture over top. Evenly spread remaining 3/4 cup whipped topping over pumpkin mixture. Sprinkle pecans evenly over top. Cover and refrigerate for at least 2 hours. Serves 8.

* Each serving equals: 115 calories, 3g fat, 3g protein, 19g carb., 225mg sodium, 2g fiber; Diabetic Exchanges: 1 1/2 Starch, 1/2 Fat.

Five-Ingredient Stuffing

A quick and easy stuffing if you need to make Thanksgiving dinner in a flash!

- 1 package (14 to 15 ounces) cubed seasoned stuffing mix
- 1 can (14 to 14 1/2 ounces) chicken broth
- 4 tablespoons margarine or butter
- 1 package (7 ounces) mixed dried fruit, chopped (1 1/4 cups)
- 1/4 teaspoon coarsely ground pepper

1. Heat oven to 325 F. Place stuffing mix in 13- by 9-inch glass baking dish.
2. In 3-quart saucepan, combine broth, margarine, fruit, pepper and 1 1/3 cups water; heat to boiling over high heat until margarine melts. Pour over stuffing mix; toss to coat.
3. Bake stuffing, uncovered, 30 to 40 minutes or until heated through and top is browned.

TIP: Brands of stuffing vary. If you like a moister version, drizzle with a little extra water or chicken broth.

Here's a Thanksgiving tip!

BY Jo Ann Derson

• "In the week before Thanksgiving, have a leftovers day and get all those bits and pieces out of the refrigerator. It will make it easier to clean so you'll have room for the turkey and the sides." -- S.T. in South Carolina

• The night before your sit-down dinner, put all the serving pieces on the table, and all the dinnerware in the dining room. You don't want to have one person trying to get plates and spoons when you are getting dinner on the table.

• "For easier cooking when making large holiday meals, simply choose two side dishes that can be oven-cooked in the same amount of time at an average temperature. I like one or two that can be cooked in the microwave as well." -- E.U. in Texas

• "For a delightful twist on cranberry jelly, slice and sprinkle with orange zest. Dress up your mashed potatoes with a sprinkling of chopped fresh chives." -- A Reader, via email

• Try this chef's trick for a juicy bird: After seasoning, cover the bird with cheesecloth or muslin secured with string. Baste over the cloth every 15 minutes. In the last 20 minutes, remove the cloth so that the skin can crisp.

• "You know what works really well to keep hot casseroles hot when waiting for other sides to finish? A cooler. Line it with a towel and set your casseroles inside. Then, when they're on the table, stick the cooler back in the kitchen. You can put the dirty casserole dishes back in the cooler after you pack away leftovers. Add some warm, soapy water, and they can even wait until the next day to get cleaned!" -- M.B. in Georgia

• P.S.G. from South Carolina writes: "For holiday gatherings that you host, delegate age-appropriate table tasks to your children: place setting, condiment delivery, refilling water glasses at scheduled intervals, etc. Children like to have a job, and they are better behaved when they have a focus and can make a contribution."

• Plan now for leftovers: Have small plastic containers and zip-top bags in case your guests or family would like to take some home. This is an especially smart thing to do if you are looking to eat healthier. Send Grandma home with a turkey plate and a big slice of chocolate cake! It's better to share.

The Kitchen Diva!

by Angela Shelf Medearis

Hope for the Best, Prepare for the Worst

After 45 years of cooking, I’ve had my share of Thanksgiving Day disasters! I’ll never forget the Thanksgiving when the turkey wasn’t done, and my family and friends were starving.

Thankfully, no pun intended, I had defrosted a package of pork chops for dinner the next day. That year we had fried pork chops, cornbread dressing with cranberry sauce, roasted vegetables, mac and cheese, dinner rolls and a vast array of desserts.

One of the many things that I learned that year, and during this stressful and unusual year, is to be thankful for the good things in life, while preparing as much as you can for the unexpected.

Here are some secrets to saving your sanity and your Thanksgiving dinner if your turkey isn’t done, or other unexpected challenges arise:

HOW TO DEFROST A TURKEY: You’ll need at least 24 to 48 hours (about five hours per pound) to thaw a frozen turkey in the refrigerator. If you need to do a quick thaw, place the wrapped, frozen turkey in your kitchen sink or a large container like an ice chest.

Cover the turkey with cold water. Drain and refill the water every half-hour because as the bird thaws out, the water will get warmer. Using this method, the turkey will thaw at the rate of about a half-hour for each pound.

PREPARING THE BIRD FOR COOKING: Remove the giblet package (neck, livers, heart, and gizzards) from inside the cavity of the bird AND check the neck cavity. Some manufacturers place the giblet package in the neck cavity and others place it inside the cavity closest to the legs.

You can place the giblets in the same pan as the raw turkey to add flavor to the meat drippings.

Most turkeys come with the legs already trussed (crossed and secured with a metal or plastic bracket). If you’re not going to stuff your bird, there’s no need to truss the legs, so remove the plastic or metal bracket and discard it.

Trussing an unstuffed bird hinders the hot oven air from circulating inside and around the legs. This means that the dark meat will take longer to cook, and the breast meat will cook faster and dry out before the legs ever get completely done.

Depositphotos

THE TURKEY ISN’T DONE: Don’t rely on the “pop-up” timer in the turkey, as it usually means that the breast is overcooked, and the dark meat isn’t done. If the dark meat isn’t done, remove the wings and breast meat from the rest of the turkey, in one piece, if possible. Cover the breast and wing portion with foil and set it aside. Put the drumsticks and thigh portion of the turkey back into the oven to continue cooking until done.

You can re-assemble the whole turkey and garnish it, or just cut it into serving portions and arrange it on a platter.

STUFFING SAVERS: If the stuffing/dressing is too wet, spread it out in a thin layer on a sheet pan so that it will dry quickly. Place it back into the oven for 5 to 7 minutes.

If it’s too dry, add more pan drippings or chicken broth to the mixture. If you don’t have any more drippings or broth, you can combine a chicken bouillon cube (if you have one), along with a teaspoon of poultry seasoning, three tablespoons of butter and 1 cup of water. Cook the mixture in the microwave for 3 to 5 minutes or until it comes to a boil. Stir to combine and then add it, a little at a time, to the dressing until it’s moist.

SOUPY MASHED POTATOES: You can add unseasoned dry bread-crumbs to soupy mashed potatoes to absorb any excess liquid. You can also microwave raw potatoes until soft, spoon out the potato, mash it and add it to your mashed potatoes along with some additional butter, salt and butter.

GRAVY RESCUE TIPS: If the gravy is lumpy, pour it through a strainer into a new pan and bring it to a simmer, stirring gently. If it’s too thin, in a separate bowl, mix a tablespoon of melted butter with a tablespoon of flour. Bring the gravy up to a boil and whisk in the butter mixture to thicken your gravy.

If the gravy is too thick, add a little more chicken broth, pan drippings, milk or a little water and butter to thin it out.

BURNT OFFERINGS: If the turkey begins to burn while it’s roasting, flip the bird over immediately and continue to cook it. After the turkey is done, you can remove and discard any blackened skin and about half an inch of the meat below any burnt area. Slice the remaining breast meat, arrange it on a platter and ladle gravy over it.

If your vegetables or gravy burn on the bottom, carefully remove the layer that isn’t burned into another pot or serving dish. Don’t scrape the bottom of the pan!

If the dinner rolls are burned on the bottom, just cut off as much as you can, butter them, and fold them in half to cover the missing ends.

Whipped cream is the perfect “make-up” for desserts that aren’t quite up to par. You can cut the top layer off a burnt pie and cover it with whipped cream.

Hopefully, these tips will rescue you from any Thanksgiving Day disasters, but remember, it’s about gathering to give thanks with the people you love — not the perfect meal! Have a blessed Thanksgiving!

Turkey Salad Made From Thanksgiving Leftovers

Hosting the Thanksgiving feast usually means a variety of leftovers tucked away in the refrigerator for building piled-high sandwiches. If you're ambitious, you might even make soup or a casserole with the good and seasoned food.

Here's another tasty option that will please your family: Make a big, savory, crunchy, nutrient-packed turkey main-dish salad, and serve it at a weekend brunch with croissants and fresh fruit on the side.

If you are like me and contribute dishes to the Thursday feast but don't host the gathering, no worries about not having turkey leftovers. Just put a fresh turkey breast in the oven on Friday and roast it for this seasonal recipe. I look for a brined turkey breast at my local market in all-natural seasoned flavors like apple cider and fresh herbs.

When I stir the salad together, I remember that my kids aren't mayo lovers, so I compromise with half mayo, half Greek yogurt for the dressing. I use dried cranberries without added sugar. If the spirit moves, this recipe is also delicious with a crisp, chopped local apple added just before serving.

Enjoy it topped over mixed greens or spoon it between a halved croissant for a delectable sandwich.

TURKEY SALAD

- 4 cups cubed, baked turkey
- 1 tablespoon chopped red onion
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1/2 teaspoon ground black pepper
- 1/2 cup mayonnaise
- 1/2 cup Greek yogurt
- 1 cup chopped celery
- 1 1/2 cups seedless red or green grapes, halved
- 1/2 cup dried cranberries
- 1/2 cup roasted pecans, loosely chopped
- 1/2 crisp apple, chopped (optional)
- 1/2 fresh lemon

In a large bowl, combine turkey, onion, salt and pepper, mayonnaise and yogurt. Add and stir together celery, grapes, cranberries and pecans. Add apple, if you wish, and a few squeezes of lemon juice just before serving. Serves 8.

• The U.S. flag didn't always have 13 stripes. When it was first created, 13 alternating red and white stripes and 13 white stars represented the original 13 colonies. In 1795, when two new states, Vermont and Kentucky were added to the Union, two more stripes and two more stars were added. The flag remained with 15 stripes until 1818, when it was determined that the 13 stripes was a better design plan, with the addition of stars to represent new states.

• Great Britain has a centuries-old tradition of Christmas pudding during the holidays. Symbolizing Jesus and his 12 disciples, the pudding has 13 ingredients, including various dried fruits, suet, eggs, molasses, and several spices. Moistened with brandy, it is then aged for at least a month, and up to a year. Legend has it that all who eat Christmas pudding in 13 different homes between Christmas and New Year's Day will have good luck in the coming year.

• The term "baker's dozen" has its origins in medieval England. Also known as a long dozen or devil's dozen, the quantity is 13, one more than the standard. In those days, there was a harsh punishment for any baker who cheated customers, so in order to be safe, bakers began giving a free loaf for every 12 sold. The 13th loaf was referred to as the vantage loaf, since it was advantageous to receive the extra.

• Superstition has even played a part in the Indianapolis 500. The number 13 was not permitted between 1926 and 2002 due to fear of tragedy in the sport. In 2003, the rules were changed and racer Greg Ray chose the number for his car, the first time it had been used since 1914. Ray experienced no bad luck and finished 8th in the competition.

In 2018, racer Danica Patrick chose a Chevrolet with the number 13 for her final race. Her car was green, which is also said to be bad luck in racing. And so it was, as Patrick crashed into the wall on Lap 67 of the race, escaping with minor injuries, retiring shortly after the Memorial Day competition.

• Up until January, 2019, a 13-year-old girl could be married in New Hampshire as long as she had parental consent. A boy had to be 14 years old. Under the new law, the minimum age was raised to 16 for both.

MORE 13 FACTS

• The number 13 is a prime number, meaning it cannot be divided evenly by any other numbers except itself and 1.

• Friday the 13th only occurs in months that start with Sunday. It happens at least once a year, and up to three times in the same year. Looking ahead, 2021 and 2022 will both have just one Friday the 13th.

• The number 13 is strongly associated with executions. There are 13 stairs leading to the gallows, the hangman's noose has 13 knots, and the guillotine's blade fell from a height of 13 feet.

• The Thirteenth Amendment to the United States Constitution was ratified on December 6, 1865. Submitted the previous year by Massachusetts Senator Charles Sumner, it stated; "All persons are equal before the law, so that no person can hold another as a slave..." effectively abolishing slavery. Although Abraham Lincoln had issued the Emancipation Proclamation freeing slaves nearly three years earlier, the Southern states had remained in secession from the Union and did not fully honor the proclamation. The amendment made it official nationally.

Spend Thanksgiving Cuddled Up With Pets

DEAR PAW'S CORNER: This summer, when we thought the pandemic was easing up, my husband and I made plans to visit his family in Georgia for Thanksgiving. Now, we've canceled those plans due to the new wave of infections. I was quite sad about it for a while, but I realized that this is an opportunity to spend time with our pets, something we rarely get to do during a busy holiday.

For the first time in a decade, I will not be boarding our two Golden Retrievers, Arlo and Woody, so we can fly south to visit my mother-in-law, who's allergic to pets. Our two cats, Jinx and Star, won't have to stay at my friend's house across town.

Our house will not be filled with visitors and guests in the days after Thanksgiving. The annual post-Thanksgiving cookout that my husband hosts the weekend afterward, when I'm out shopping for Christmas gifts, is canceled, as well.

Instead, we'll be snuggled up on the sofa, with our dear pets all around. I will do most of my shopping online. We'll visit with friends and relatives on FaceTime and Zoom.

I realize that for the first time, instead of dreading the holiday season with all of the stress of catering to family and friends, we will be focusing on simple joys. I am thankful for that. These are difficult times, but in the midst of it all, we can stop and just hug our pets and feel love

KOVELS Antiques & Collecting Iron Clown Head
By Terry and Kim Kovel

Part of the fun of bidding at auctions is seeing unusual, and perhaps useless, antiques selling for a lot of money. A very noticeable iron head of a clown with a mask, about 20 inches high, was offered in a Michaan's Auctions in Alameda, California. It was marked "J.T. Dickman, Pat'd Sep 19, 1911." Only the clown, squirrel and rabbit shooting gallery target shapes with the Dickman patent information are listed for sale online. The clown sold for $12,000.

This heavy 20-inch-tall head is made of iron. It was painted red and white. The auction catalog said it was a clown because of the pointed hat with a tassel. It's a not-very-funny shooting gallery target that pictures a clown with a mask. The strange item was wanted by many collectors, and the high bid was $12,000.

Iron tools were the only antiques to be pricey before 1950. Tongs, building supports, fences, hardware, boot scrapers, safes and windmill weights were selling at antique shows. By 1900, iron was used to make frying pans and attractive pieces like bookends, doorstops, large statues of animals and garden furniture. Iron can be molded or shaped by hand, is heavy and durable, and is often used for manhole covers.

Q: I inherited two unusual 14-karat gold and pearl tuxedo studs from my father's estate. They are square with what looks like a lace-edge handkerchief folded over in a triangle shape. A long pin with a pearl head is stuck through the "handkerchief." I don't want to scrap them. How can I find their value for resale?

A: Even though you don't want to "scrap them," it helps to know the meltdown value in order to determine the resale value of gold or silver items. You can take the studs to a jeweler to see how much the gold weighs and to find out the current meltdown value. The pearl also adds value. Jewelers often measure gold in troy ounces, which are heavier than standard ounces. The meltdown value of 14-karat gold fluctuates, but the

Echocardiogram Definition

DEAR DR. ROACH: I recently changed primary doctors, and I saw the report of my echocardiogram. It said I have "mild left ventricular hypertrophy with some diastolic dysfunction." Could you tell me what this means and if it is serious? -- C.B.

ANSWER: An echocardiogram uses sound waves to take precise images of the heart. The cardiologist interprets those images to make statements about the anatomy of the heart, including thickness of the walls of the heart, as well as its function.

The left ventricle is the chamber of the heart that pumps blood to all of the body, having received oxygenated blood from the lungs. Consequently, it is the thickest of the chambers. "Hypertrophy" means "too much growth" -- that the wall is too thick. "Diastole" is the part of the cardiac cycle where the ventricles fill up. This should happen at very low pressures. In diastolic dysfunction, which commonly accompanies left ventricular hypertrophy, the left ventricle requires higher pressure to fill that thickened and stiffer wall.

LVH and diastolic dysfunction are most commonly results of high blood pressure. Some of the many medicines we use to control high blood pressure are good at helping the heart fill at lower pressure. Not everybody with these findings on an echo needs treatment. The key word in your report is "mild," which generally indicates no need for treatment beyond careful blood pressure monitoring.

Dr. Roach regrets that he is unable to answer individual questions, but will incorporate them in the column whenever possible. Readers may email questions to ToYourGoodHealth@med.cornell.edu.

value of a troy ounce is about $1,850. The jeweler may offer to buy them for a lower price because the jeweler must be able to make a profit. Most tuxedo stud sets include at least four studs and a pair of cufflinks. Since you only have two studs, they can't be worn with a tuxedo shirt.

December 7th, 1941

In honor of the upcoming 79th anniversary, Tidbits and these fine businesses bring you information and facts about this fateful day in American history.

Americans fired the first shot

The first of many Pearl Harbor facts, some new information discovered in the last year or so, is that on the morning of December 7th, 1941, the Wickes-class destroyer USS Ward attacked and sank a Ko-hyoteki-class midget submarine near the entrance to the harbor, making it not only the first shot fired on that day, but the first official American shot in the War. The Japanese sub's periscope was spotted above the water by the minesweeper Condor, which alerted the crew of the Ward, who opened fire on the intruder.

The attack on Pearl Harbor lasted for about two hours

Coming in from all directions. The defenders had no idea which direction they should fire. Wave-after-wave, Japanese planes arrived targeting airstrips, ships, buildings, and storage areas. Dive bombers, fighters, torpedo bombers, and high-level bombers blanketed the sky dropping their deadly payloads across the island of Oahu. The two waves of aircraft enacted a heavy toll on their targets, namely battleship row.

The attack began at 7:55 am HST on Sunday morning.

Japanese aircraft were launched from the Japanese fleet, north of Hawaii consisting of: 65 Ships – 4 heavy aircraft carriers, 2 heavy cruisers, 35 submarines, 2 light cruisers, 9 oilers, 2 battleships, 11 destroyers. 353 Aircraft – 40 torpedo planes, 103 level bombers, 131 dive-bombers, 79 fighters were used.

The Attack on Pearl Harbor led to US entering World War II

On December 8, the day after the attack on Pearl Harbor, Congress approved Roosevelt's declaration of war. The US declared war on Japan.

Three days later, Japanese allies Germany and Italy declared war against the United States. More than two years after the start of the conflict, the United States had finally entered World War II.

The surprise attack did not destroy the entire American Pacific Fleet

In the surprise attack on 'Battleship Row' on December 7th, the Arizona and Oklahoma were the only ships damaged beyond repair by bombs or torpedo hits. Of the 2,026 American sailors and marines killed in the attack, 1,606 had been aboard these two ships.

Three more battleships (the California, West Virginia and Nevada) sank upright in the shallow water of the harbor. They were salvaged, and while many vessels did not return to the battlefield for several years, most suffered repairable damage. The Battleship Missouri is now anchored there.

Veterans can be laid to rest at Pearl Harbor

A wonderful USS Arizona fact that honors the survivors is that they have the option to join their lost comrades and make ship their final resting place. Crew members who served onboard the USS Arizona during the attack may choose to have their ashes deposited by divers beneath one of sunken Arizona's gun turrets.

Roughly 44 Arizona survivors have chosen this option. Other military survivors can choose to have their ashes scattered wherever their ship was located during the attacks. The last person to be interred in the ship was in 2019.

Pearl Harbor was attacked to protect the invasion of "Southern Resource Area"

Japan's naval forces depended on the United States for the supply of natural and industrial resources (namely, oil) without which its forces would be significantly impaired. This led to Japan to target South-east Asia, rich in minerals and oil. While they knew that such an invasion would lead to war against America, Japan decided to destroy America's Pacific Fleet to prevent American interference in its plan to access resources of countries in Southeast Asia, which Japan called "Southern Resource Area".

This was the primary reason behind the attack on Pearl Harbor.

The USS Arizona still leaks fuel

The day before the attacks, the USS Arizona took on a full load of fuel, nearly 1.5 million gallons. Much of that fuel helped ignite the explosion and subsequent fires that destroyed the ships, but amazingly, some fuel continues to seep out of the wreckage.

According to the History Channel, the Arizona "continues to spill up to 9 quarts of oil into the harbor each day." This adds to the emotional gravity of this memorial and those visiting often refer to this phenomenon as the "tears of the Arizona" or "black tears."

Japan is now one of America's strongest allies

While most people can tell you that the Japanese were responsible for the attacks, not everyone realizes that the Japanese now visit the memorial in droves.

Japan, now one of America's strongest allies, is the largest source of international tourists to the state of Hawaii. Japanese visitors pay their respects at National Memorial just as Americans do.
